

| Question |        | Answer    | Mark | Mark scheme                                                                                                                                                                                           | Additional guidance                     |
|----------|--------|-----------|------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|
| 16       | (a)(i) | B         | B1   | for B, accept 0.033 on the answer line                                                                                                                                                                |                                         |
|          | (ii)   | C         | B1   | for C, accept $\frac{1}{3}$ on the answer line                                                                                                                                                        |                                         |
|          | (b)    | Statement | C1   | eg No with $(\frac{1}{3})$ and $\frac{2}{3}$or No, probabilities would need to be $\frac{1}{2}$or No since $\frac{1}{3} + \frac{1}{3}$ does not equal 1or No since tails is 67% (or 0.67) |                                         |
|          | (c)    | 132       | M1   | for $4000 \times 0.033$OR $\frac{132}{4000}$                                                                                                                                               |                                         |
|          |        |           | A1   | cao                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 132 out of 4000 is an acceptable answer |